MARRIAGE THERAPY JOURNAL will guide you through conflict, communication, curiosity, and connection on your way to a better relationship.

A good therapist is better than a great therapy book. But a good therapy book is better than no therapist. It might even be better than a bad one.

Bonnie-Jill Laflin

In a League of Her Own, Celebrating Female Firsts in Sports, Bonnie-Jill Laflin shares the stories of women from the field to the front office who achieved record-breaking accomplishments and changed expectations, featuring new interviews with and profiles of Billie Jean King, Jackie Joyner-Kersey, Danica Patrick, Jeanie Buss, Nadia Comăneci, Mary Lou Retton and more.

Bonnie-Jill is a trailblazing sports broadcaster and the first and only female NBA scout, holding the front office executive position with the Los Angeles Lakers. She's the first woman to dance at a professional level for three teams, in two sports, starting with the NBA's Golden State Warriors, and moving to the NFL for both the San Francisco 49ers and the Dallas Cowboys. She is the first female to be awarded six championship rings in two professional sports, earning a Super Bowl ring during her time cheering for the 49ers, and five NBA championship rings as an executive for the Lakers. She has worked as a reporter and host for ESPN, NBA TV, NBC/NBC Sports, NFL Films, Westwood One, CBS, E!, BBC Sports, SiriusXM, NFR Live, and Fox Sports, and is a host ambassador for Michael Jordan's "Jordan Brand."

BLOOM HOW YOU MUST: A Black Woman’s Guide to Self-Care, by Tara Pringle Jefferson, will put Black women at the forefront of the wellness conversation. The title BLOOM HOW YOU MUST comes from a Lucille Clifton poem, “Mulberry Fields,” about the enduring legacy of Black People. Tara is the founder of The Self Care Suite, a wellness community for Black women and other women of color.

Self-care is now a multi-billion dollar industry, and it is not a trend or frivolous matter for Black women. It has always been a throughline: Consider Coretta Scott King on girls’ trips with fellow activist Betty Shabazz and Myrlie Evers-Williams to take a break from the stress of the civil rights movement. Remember Rosa Parks attending (and leading!) yoga classes in the midst of her Detroit activism. Bloom How You Must will connect the dots in one easy to read, digestible book—part guide/part journal with exercises to put each segment of wellness into practice. Her voice has been featured on New York Magazine/The Cut, Black Enterprise and Essence.

The Fry Pans Aren't Sufficing uses dark humor and surrealism in a collection of short stories, told through a strikingly unique voice, to follow a variety of characters navigating the disorienting worlds of natural disaster, displacement, love, grief, and rebirth across multiple locations, including New Orleans, New York City, Chicago, and Hawaii.

"Beyond the diverse cast of characters, New Orleans itself is a character, often both comforting and maddening for the male protagonists." – Publishers Weekly

We Promised Utopia is a sci-fi epic centered around Mexican-American, charismatic idealist, Isabel Bari, and her development of the Equivalent Carbon Credit (ECC) which ties every element of the global economy to a carbon-based currency.

Witness the rise of a utopian society, its budding growth, and its descent into dystopia.

"A timely, engrossing SF tale with an environmental theme and striking art" that "offers readers just as many reasons to return for the sequel." Kirkus Reviews

"The pacing here is superb and as it takes us through the pages revealing the world, the story and the characters it certainly piques our curiosity to know more." Steven Leitman, GEEKS
